A nighttime photograph of Villa Rachele, a large, ornate red brick building with white architectural details. The building features a central entrance with a pediment and a tall, multi-story tower on the right side. The facade is illuminated by warm lights, highlighting the arched windows and doorways. In the foreground, a circular garden area contains a small fountain with a statue of a figure holding a torch. The garden is surrounded by a low stone wall and is lit with ground-level spotlights. A black metal bench is visible on the left side of the garden. The sky is a deep blue, and the surrounding trees are silhouetted against the light.
